REDress Week:

This week we will be holding space to honor Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, Girls and 2 Spirited people in preparation for the annual REDress Day on May the 5th.

In 2010, Metis artist Jaime Black launched the REDress project. She strategically displayed hundreds of red dresses in public spaces to symbolize the absence of Indigenous women and girls who have gone missing or murdered, aiming to raise awareness about Missing Indigenous Women across this country.

On our path of Reconciliation, we are inviting your TA to have a conversation about this topic. We have dresses for classrooms to hang in their space along with an information sheet. Please send a representative to pick up both items next to the office from Jeannie or Annette.

We have extended TA today for students to make an origami red dress and/or make a pledge to learn, help and honor the MMIWG2+ in Canada. Please bring your dresses to the exhibit in the main foyer and attach your TA's dresses. Pledges can be added to the large basket in the center of the exhibit. Space will be available in student services for discussions & support if needed.
