

A Collaborative Project of Vancouver Island Literacy Network

Designed and printed by printshop@sd71.bc.ca

Feathers to Fly

Seagull is ready to fly!

She spreads her wings wide.
She is ready for take off!

Seagull flaps her wings up and down to fly.

Look at the tail feathers on Seagull. They are wide apart! I wonder why?

Seagull is looking down. She is looking for a place to land.

Seagull sees a place to land.

Her tail feathers are her brakes. They help Seagull land safely.

When you see a seagull,
watch how their wings
help them to fly.
Watch as they open their tail feathers to land.

Our sincere thanks to Margaret Casella for gifting us these seagull photographs. All she asked for in return, was a copy of this book and a photo of children reading it. Thank you for your generous, open heart Margaret!

*From the classrooms of Vancouver Island,
British Columbia, Canada.*