

A Collaborative Project of Vancouver Island Literacy Network

Designed and printed by printshop@sd71.bc.ca

Summers
on Savary Island

Here is Liam. Here is Noah. What can they do on Savary Island?

Liam looks for creatures like a starfish.

They throw rocks at the beach.

They play frisbee on the sandbar.

Liam and Noah play bocce ball on the sand.

Liam looks for animal shapes in the clouds.

Noah and Liam play all day on the beach.

Liam and Noah spend time together.

Liam and Noah wrestle and play fight in the sand.

They go fishing on the big boat.

Liam and Noah are good friends.

Here is Noah. Here is Liam. Now they are grown up friends.

Victoria Clarke has kindly gifted these photos to our Vancouver Island book project. We are extremely grateful that she has shared her photographic talents with us.

Lisa Kinshella is a member of the Island Literacy Network. Her son, Liam is pictured with his good friend, Noah. We are thankful that these best friends have shared their friendship through these amazing photos.

Victoria Clarke has taken photographs since she was a young teenager, encouraged by her father's passion for photography and print making. Victoria's travels around the world to places such as Mongolia, Iceland and Bhutan, have provided rich subject matter for her photographs. Her photographic work is also informed by her painting through which she explores abstract expressionism with a range of mixed media. She lives in Victoria with her family, loves the outdoors and is a volunteer with a local search and rescue group.